The Fosters wanted an updated, brighter kitchen, with solid surface tops, increased counter top workspace and storage, within the framework of a budget they could afford. This was accomplished with an improved lighting and cabinet design, including converting from a built-in oven/cook-top to a free-standing stove, and converting a linen closet into a pantry. All the cabinets, tile backsplash, wallpaper, linen closet and old flooring were removed. New painted cabinets, Corian tops, accentuating tile backsplash, new textured ceiling with crown molding, vinyl flooring, skim-coating and painting of all walls and trim completed the dramatic change.
